The background consists of a dense, overlapping pattern of Hong Kong postage stamps. The stamps are in various colors including blue, green, orange, and purple. Each stamp features a profile of a woman's face, a landscape, and the text 'HONG KONG' and '香港'. Some stamps also show the value '50' and the year '1990'.

Description

The collected stamps were the last issued the Queen Elizabeth II portrait stamps in Hong Kong - The sixth issue from 1987 to 1991 Queen Elizabeth II Definitive Stamps. This recycled artwork idea was inspired from an abstract diamond shape pattern with a total of 63 postage stamps with the post office's hand postmarks. It used 7 colors with different types of stamp values and it was hand-glued on white paper board. Also, It is framed in black metal finish.

As a childhood hobby, I collected many stamps from envelopes and they were soaked and dried. I was curious that it had divided colorful palette colors for stamp values. Unfortunately, I just placed it somewhere and forgot it. Many years later, I decided to transform them to become affordable artworks. It targeted those who are interested in Hong Kong stamp history and appreciate the UK's late queen - The Queen Elizabeth II.
